Our Journey to Wholeness

People in the world today are broken. The evidence is clear when we see how many are enslaved by addictions and compulsive behaviors. Ever since the fall, the enemy of God has sought to misrepresent His character. As a result, many have misjudged God as distant, unjust, and unloving. In a desperate search for meaning and healing for their brokenness, many have sought comfort on their own pleasures and destructive practices that serve only to enslave, bring shame and more pain. This scenario is not only a reality among people who don't profess faith in God, but also among people of faith. Members of the Adventist church are not immune. We too may experience abusive relationships, grow up in dysfunctional families and can end up turning to substance abuse, pornography, food, work, or other behaviors in an effort to soothe the emotional pain in our brokenness. Over the last several years I have had the privilege to work closely with Adventist Recovery Ministry Global, a ministry with the mission to "Promote healing and freedom from harmful behaviors by providing resources and training to facilitate recovery from addictions." ARMin Global has the vision to nurture all to be "Healthy people growing in a relationship with Christ by using principles of God's Word and choosing healthful practices aimed at finding freedom from harmful habits and addictive behaviors." Through this ministry I heard the journeys of many who struggle, but who find healing from brokenness to wholeness through the power of Jesus Christ. My story is no different for I am among them. Our dream in Health Ministry is to see each Adventist church become a center for healing and wholeness in Christ, embracing every struggling person with love and acceptance. We want to reach the cities for God extending His healing ministry to all who are broken. One of the ways ARMin Global is doing this is by using the framework of the 12 steps integrated with biblical perspectives described in the book Steps to Christ, making it a Christ-centered approach for recovery (<http://adventistrecoveryglobal.org/about-us/12-step-method/>). A Steps to Christ Recovery Edition is now available to be ordered and shared widely. In this edition, the 12 steps are integrated with the chapters of the book, assisting the reader in their personal journey to wholeness and restoration in Christ. (see page 2 for information about a promotional rate available until July 10). One of my favorite quotations from Ministry of Healing reads, "Nothing is apparently more helpless, yet really more invincible, than the soul that feels its nothingness and relies wholly on the merits of the Savior. By prayer, by the study of His word, by faith in His abiding presence, the weakest of human beings may live in contact with the living Christ, and He will hold them by a hand that will never let go." (p. 182). What a beautiful reminder! It reinforces the promise of our loving God: "I will be with you always, even to the end of times" (Matthew 28:20 - NIV). May you too experience healing for your brokenness as you walk the journey to wholeness, joining David in his joyful declaration: "You have shown me the path of life." Psalms 16:11

The International Day against Drug Abuse and Illicit Trafficking is celebrated each year to strengthen global action and cooperation to achieve the goal of an international society free of drug abuse. Building on the success of last year, the theme for 2018 is: "Listen First - Listening to children and youth is the first step to help them grow healthy and safe." It is an initiative to increase support for prevention of drug use that is based on science and is thus an effective investment in the well-being of children and youth, their families and their communities. • World Hepatitis Day (WHD) is July 28. The elimination of viral hepatitis is not just a public health goal—it is an individual goal for millions of men, women, and children across the world. On WHD 2018, we can accelerate progress toward achieving the goal of eliminating hepatitis by 2030. Every single person could be affected by viral hepatitis, and we all have a part to play to achieve elimination. To highlight this, the WHO campaign is putting a human face to elimination of viral hepatitis. Take your picture and tweet it with a hashtag #ShowYourFace and add what you are doing to make a difference. Together we can all put a human face to the elimination of viral hepatitis. <https://www.goo.gl/WYBhdp>

RESEARCH UPDATES

Share Facts with Hope and Positive Choices

• Forgiveness helps us to live longer. After analyzing data from the Religion, Aging and Health Survey of over 1,200 people over the age of 25, researchers found that an attitude of forgiveness toward others is associated with a decreased risk for all-cause mortality. Nearly everyone has been hurt by the actions or words of another. But in holding grudges, we may be the one who pays most dearly in higher levels of anxiety, hypertension, depression, substance abuse and more. On the other hand, “forgiving one another, even as God for Christ’s sake hath forgiven you” (Ephesians 4:31) will lead you down the path of physical, emotional and spiritual well-being. Start the process of forgiveness today. <https://factswithhope.org/> (video 18).

• Religious people live longer. Ohio State University scientists have examined two samples of more than 1,600 obituaries looking for religion, marital status and social activities. They found that religious people lived an average of 5.64 years longer than nonbelievers. When controlled for gender and marital status the advantage was 3.82 years. Religious values, prayer and meditation, and volunteerism may all help contribute to this advantage. How is your religious life? Involvement in religious groups may extend your life! <http://www.positivechoices.com/tips/2018/06/20>

• Having a pet might lower your risk of heart disease.

A review of previous studies on the influence of pets on human health found that pet owners tend to have lower blood pressure and cholesterol levels, stress, and incidence of obesity. One study of over 5,200 adults showed that dog owners were 54 percent more likely to reach recommended levels of physical activity. As you consider your leisure time activities, think about the loving relationship you have with your dog. Not only can pets pull at your heartstrings, but they improve your heart health so that you will live a longer and happier life. <https://factswithhope.org/> (video 19).

• Marijuana addiction growing. A Pew Charitable Trust investigation found that marijuana addiction does exist and is growing. While hard numbers are hard to come by, data suggests about 9 percent of all users become addicted to marijuana (17 percent among those who start as adolescents). Some treatment centers report increases in those requesting help which may be due to higher concentrations of THC levels. Selective breeding has increased the potency today to 20-30 percent, up from 2-4 percent several decades ago. It is estimated that 2.7 million Americans are dependent on marijuana. The best policy is to never start, but if you are dependent, get qualified help immediately. <http://www.positivechoices.com/tips/2018/06/12>

II European Conference on Health

Bucharest, Romania | Inter-European Division

On April 17-21, 2018 over 600 people gathered in Bucharest, Romania, for the 2nd European Conference under the theme "Reversing Diseases with Lifestyle Medicine." Health professionals, health educators and students representing dozens of countries in Europe and beyond participated. The aim of the encounter, according to Valerie Dufour, Inter-European Health Ministries director who organized the event, was to share stories of healing, focusing on the "Source and process of healing—as well as each person's necessary contribution to his/her recovery." Several lectures and workshops were presented by professionals from around the world focusing on ways lifestyle can impact chronic disease. Attendees left inspired to share what they learn and put it in practice.

Dozens of participants came together on June 11-13 at Zaoksky University for the first Euro-Asia Division Adventist Recovery Ministries Global training. Union health directors, pastors, administrators, teachers, health professionals and lay members were enthusiastic as they learned ways to better understand and minister to the many who struggle with addictive behaviors. Dr. Katia Reinert, Dr. David Sedlacek and Nadia Ivanova presented on various relevant topics, and people became acquainted with and ready to facilitate Christ-centered 12-step recovery groups in their communities. Beautiful testimonies of victory in Christ were shared by several participants recounting their own stories of recovery, and the group left motivated to share Jesus' healing ministry in vibrant and effective ways in their church and communities.
